Kile's Korner

Have you ever experienced the same feelings that I have? Your spiritual life and social life are going nowhere. All our thoughts and feelings are internalized. We feel like we are worthless, no one cares about us. What a sad feeling that is. It is the making of depression.

I read some thoughts that impacted my life and made me think of where I am headed. Here's some food for thought:

How have your habits and priorities impacted your ability to hear God?

How will you prioritize worship, prayer, and meditation to fill you during dry times? These things will bring you closer to God.

I have also found that when I am having a depressed day, if I get out of the office and reach out to others, it's the best remedy there is. Visiting with someone else that is going through difficult times is the best way of working through your own feelings. We forget about our own problems when we make someone else feel better.

That's what I love about what we are doing. We get out of our comfort zones, volunteer to help others and in turn our problems seem so insignificant. Look back at what you accomplish on your assignments and be thankful that you had the opportunity to help.

Have fun in your assignments this year and be safe.

In His Service,

Ed

Rocky Butte

Three ROAM couples were at Rocky Butte in Brewster, Washington, during the month of July and into August. They did amazing things. They had skills and tools and lots of know-how. While I do not quite have all the projects fully done, we are a point where the end is in sight. I have a New Start Spanish church in the building now with an average attendance of 50. This congregation has picked up the workload and is finishing it quickly.

I do want to express my gratitude for the three couples who came and gave of themselves and their resources so generously.

Dr. Ronald Hunter

Higher Ground

Daniel and Lutrecia Church

Higher Ground in West Harrison, Indiana, has modern and well-kept buildings, two football fields, and a fantastic dining facility.

We were treated very well – like staff members. They included us in team meetings and showed their appreciation for our work. It is a well-organized camp.

This is a very nice campground and we plan to go back.

Living Waters Bible Camp

Daniel and Lutrecia Church

Living Waters Bible Camp in Danforth, Maine, is in a wonderful location with a beautiful lake. While we were there, they had church services every day but Saturday.

We were able to replace windows and screens, repair and paint picnic tables, and repair and paint a miniature golf course.
