

Billy Graham Training Center at the Cove

By George and Lisa Weeks

George and I had the honor to be the first ROAM couple to volunteer at the Billy Graham Training Center at the Cove. There were four Sower couples there as well.

The grounds were breathtaking, and all the staff who work at the facility are so very well organized.

George spent his time painting inside with other men. Outside projects were put on hold due to rain. In three weeks the men spread seventeen gallons of paint!

Lisa spent her time with the ladies tallying all comments from the questionnaires given to the guests. Also, a must at the Cove was to pray over all prayer requests at least five times! The ladies helped with that too. Another job was to change batteries for the key locks to the doors at one of the Inns. Then we changed more batteries, this time to the clocks in the rooms.

We met Will Graham, the grandson of Billy Graham, on several occasions. One day while walking by our group as we were praying, he stopped and prayed with us instead of walking by!

You can see the wildlife that roam free there too. We did! Yes, we highly recommend volunteering your time at The Billy Graham Training Center at the Cove and see it for yourself!!
